Celebrates such as singers, movie stars or athletes are well-known among the people. Some people think that the expenses paid for them are quite extra in the related field of entertainment. I don't think people should feel celebrates are paid more because in reaching to the top there is a struggle and dedication they have given in their field which we can't deny. Also, they have worked so hard to earn in return they invest the money for the social welfare of the common people.

Firstly, I would like to relate entertainers as common people who have given their so much in life to achieve the goals. The struggle they do is hidden underground only the success is seen by the general people. For example, athletes such as football players who work so hard and dedicate their half-life to the sports without thinking of their family fully working on the training of their body physically and mentally which needs some guts to do that taking pressure to win the game. So in return, they should be paid more by the different clubs or from the government to continue the good form in the game and this sort of motivates them to do more for the clubs and nation also which is one kind of pride also. We can ³clearly see that big entertainers are raising their hands in investing the money in the social cause by raising the money in the welfare of the people when certain problems arise.

However, in some cases celebrities like movie stars often take a huge amount of movie just because of their fame without playing an important role in the movie and not impacting the people in different aspects. Instead of paying more expenses to this celebrates it is better to invest the money and provide quality of money for those who work hard day and night only thinking about others and for those who are fully determined in their work. For example, there are various jobs like doctors, engineers, and teachers who work full time in the service of the people where I think they are not getting what they deserve .Especially doctors who are treated as living god as they work to keep the people alive .so, in this case, its better this people deserve more and paid more compared to some entertainers.

In conclusion, I believe that the amount of money paid should be more based on their hard work and determination in their related field whether they are big movie stars or just a doctor who work s hard to save other's life. People shouldn't be treated according to their fame but by their work.
